

DIVORCE PLANNING & CONSULTING

Partner During Divorce Process

As experienced Certified Divorce Financial Analyst® practitioners (CDFA®), we work alongside the client and his/her divorce attorney to provide invaluable analysis that shows the financial effect of any given divorce settlement. Our goal is to help the client and attorney confidently achieve the best possible outcome for future financial security. We are able to assist clients through all phases of their divorce. By working with a CDFA, we find that individuals and their attorneys are able to conserve emotional and financial resources through the divorce process.

Following the settlement, Sandy Cove Advisors works with the client's team of advisors to manage their financial future. We provide the gift of time and peace of mind so they are able to spend time with family throughout this transition. Our team is a consistent support and resource for any financial question, hurdle or goal the client has in the future.

Why did we Chose this Niche?

When we opened our doors in 2010, the marketplace quickly made obvious the need for financial advisors who could deliver comprehensive divorce planning. Thoughtfully, and with compassion, our Divorce Planning practice was built. We have found that clients become overwhelmed with gathering the required data and support for the divorce process. Many times they are paralyzed and get stuck because they are fearful for their future financial security. Through personal and professional experience, our team is aptly qualified to transition any client toward financial confidence and understanding.
