Featured Artist

Lifelong artist and art educator in the Elmbrook school district, Christine Capriolo, has explored many art forms. The paintings displayed at our office are from her “Day in the Life Series,” capturing and recreating snapshots from her day. She teaches her students how to capture the many values between light and dark to create depth.

Her latest series of miniature oil paintings looks at candid everyday moments, ala Edward B. Gordon’s “painting-a-day” art movement. She is also working on a series of mixed media pieces investigating color, collage and the female form. Stop in, view her work at our office, or email her at christinecapriolo@sbcglobal.net
