World Equity Market Capitalization

As of December 31, 2022

A wealth of information here for sure, with the take-away being: be patient, be diversified and be disciplined. Markets work because they harness the power of our ingenuity. Markets are the quantification of human progress and we're just getting started. AI is the latest, but not last innovation that we will come up with, or that markets will measure in terms of dollars. Owning a broad spectrum of global companies allows investors to participate in human resourcefulness everywhere and anywhere it happens.

Our portfolios do just that, and require only time to yield results. We have high conviction in the human race and align our portfolios accordingly. Innovation doesn't just happen when the economy is booming, so staying invested in good times and bad is always prudent.
