From Purpose to Time Management

“You must first be who you really are, then do what you need to do, in order to have what you want.”

– Margaret Young

A couple traveling through the countryside was lost. They spotted an old man on the side of the road and asked, “Where are we at?”

“Where are you going?” came his reply.

“We don’t know,” they said.

“Then it doesn’t matter.”

When we don’t have a sense of where we are going, where we are now isn’t that important. Only when we know our purpose - where we are going - can we make heads or tails out of how to use our time.

Follow this progression: Our purpose helps us prioritize. Our priorities form solid ground to stand on when we make plans and set goals. Time management is no more and no less than strategically “engineering” a progression from purpose to priorities to plans and goals.

God always provides enough time to accomplish His plans. We each have all the time we need to do everything God wants us to do. We just need to use it more productively. We need to stop always going for the “long bomb” and run more dependable short yardage plays. We need to block and tackle better. If we do, we will have all the time we need. If we don’t, we’ll have to punt.

“Little things done in a single direction” - that’s the way.

- Man in the Mirror

“For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans for welfare and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope.”

- Jeremiah 29:11
