WAI seeks to provide that investment decisions are made in accordance with the fiduciary duties owed to its clients and without consideration of WAI's economic, investment or other financial interests. To meet its fiduciary obligations, WAI attempts to avoid, among other things, investment or trading practices that systematically advantage or disadvantage certain client portfolios, and, accordingly, WAI's policy is to seek fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities/transactions among its clients to avoid favoring one client over another over time.

Held Away Accounts - WAI has established a relationship with Pontera Solutions Inc. (Pontera), a technology firm that provides service platform solutions to investment advisers, such as WAI, that advise and/or manage held away client accounts, such as qualified plan participant accounts. The Pontera platform allows WAI to receive feeds from held away accounts, analyze accounts, plan fees, and execute trades. The Pontera service platform allows WAI to integrate the management and advise of held away accounts into WAI's adviser services and programs.

Sub-Advisors - In some instances, the management of client accounts are delegated to other investment advisors that have sub-advisor agreements with WAI. In such instances, the other investment advisors will have discretionary authority to manage client accounts. A complete description of each of these other investment advisor's services is described in their Form ADV Part 2A Disclosure Brochures. When another investment advisor is used in a client account the client will be provided the other investment advisor's Form ADV Part 2A Disclosure Brochure. A client may always place limitations on the use of other investment advisors by WAI.

Qualified Retirement Plan Services

WAI offers advisory services to participant-directed defined contribution plans subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (ERISA) ("ERISA Plan clients"), such as 401(k) plans. Each ERISA Plan client is required to enter into an investment advisory or management agreement with WAI describing the services that WAI will perform for the ERISA plan and its participants. WAI provides both ERISA fiduciary services and non-fiduciary services to ERISA Plan clients.

Fiduciary Services

WAI provides fiduciary services to ERISA Plan clients as a non-discretionary investment adviser.

Investment Advisory Services

WAI also provides investment advisory services on a non-discretionary basis under ERISA § 3(21) and in that capacity, the ERISA Plan client retains, and exercises, final decision-making authority and responsibility for the implementation (or rejection) of WAI's recommendations or advice. Each ERISA Plan client who engages WAI to perform non-discretionary investment advisory services is required to enter into an investment advisory agreement.

WAI's non-discretionary investment advisory services include assisting the ERISA Plan client in developing and implementing an investment policy statement, assisting the ERISA Plan client in selecting a broad range of investment options consistent with ERISA § 404(c), assisting the ERISA Plan client in making decisions about the selection, retention, removal and addition of investment options, and if the ERISA client has determined that the Plan should have a Qualified Default Investment Alternative (QDIA) for participants who fail to make an investment election, assisting in the selection of the investment that will serve as a QDIA. WAI may also provide participant-level investment advisory services.

Non-Fiduciary Services

WAI's non-fiduciary services to ERISA Plan clients include educating the ERISA Plan client as to its fiduciary responsibilities, assisting the ERISA Plan client in monitoring, selecting and supervising service vendors, and performing benchmarking studies and fee analysis. WAI's non-fiduciary services also include assisting in group enrollment meetings and educating plan participants about general investment principles and the investment alternatives under the plan.

Retirement Account Clients/Potential for Conflict of Interest

WAI is a fiduciary under ERISA with respect to investment management services and investment advice provided to ERISA clients, including ERISA plan participants. WAI is also a fiduciary under the Internal Revenue Code ("IRC") with respect to investment management services and investment advice provided to ERISA plans, ERISA plan participants, IRA owners and IRAs (collectively, "Retirement Account clients"). As such, WAI is subject to specific duties and obligations under ERISA and the IRC that include, among other things, prohibited transaction rules which are intended to prohibit fiduciaries from acting on conflicts of interest. When a fiduciary gives advice in which it has a conflict of interest, the fiduciary must either avoid or eliminate the conflict or rely upon a prohibited transaction exemption. A conflict of interest arises and the prohibited transaction rules are implicated when WAI provides fiduciary advice about plan distributions and rollovers if it results in WAI receiving compensation that it would not have received absent the advice. WAI will mitigate this conflict by acting in the best interest of the client.

WAI Compensation Conflicts

Insurance Compensation

WAI's IARs may be licensed insurance agents. In this capacity, they may sell insurance products for sales commissions as independent insurance agents. The IARs may receive a portion of these commissions in their separate capacity as insurance agents. Clients should be aware that the payment and receipt of these commissions could create a potential conflict of interest to recommend investment and insurance products based on compensation rather than client needs. These insurance products will not be placed in WAI investment advisory accounts if the IAR receives a portion of these commissions in their separate capacity as insurance agent. clients always have the option to purchase the insurance products that IARs recommends through other unaffiliated insurance agents. WAI IARs generally spend less than 5% of their time on these activities and receives less than 5% of their income from these activities.

Accounting Compensation

A number of WAI IARs also provide accounting, business consulting, and tax preparation services through MHCS, a Certified Public Accounting firm. Clients of WAI may also be clients of MHCS. Clients are not obligated in any manner to use the services of MHCS. These IARs spend a majority of their time on these CPA accounting activities and receive a majority of their income from these activities.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

WAI's methods of analysis include charting analysis, fundamental analysis, technical analysis, cyclical analysis, quantitative analysis and modern portfolio theory.

Charting analysis involves the use of patterns in performance charts. WAI uses this technique to search for patterns used to help predict favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Fundamental analysis involves the analysis of financial statements, the general financial health of companies, and/or the analysis of management or competitive advantages.

Technical analysis involves the analysis of past market data; primarily price and volume.

Cyclical analysis involves the analysis of business cycles to find favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Quantitative analysis deals with measurable factors, such as the value of assets, the cost of capital, historical projections of sales, and so on.

Modern Portfolio Theory is a theory of investment which attempts to maximize portfolio expected return for a given amount of portfolio risk, or equivalently minimize risk for a given level of expected return, by carefully choosing the proportions of various assets.

Investment Strategies

WAI uses long term trading, short term trading, short sales, and options trading (including covered options, uncovered options or spreading strategies).

Material Risks Involved

Charting analysis strategy involves using and comparing various charts to predict long and short-term performance or market trends. The risk involved in using this method is that only past performance data is considered without using other methods to crosscheck data. Using charting analysis without other methods of analysis would be making the assumption that past performance will be indicative of future performance. This may not be the case.

Fundamental analysis concentrates on factors that determine a company's value and expected future earnings. This strategy would normally encourage equity purchases in stocks that are undervalued or priced below their perceived value. The risk assumed is that the market will fail to reach expectations of perceived value.

Technical analysis attempts to predict a future stock price or direction based on market trends. The assumption is that the market follows discernible patterns and if these patterns can be identified then a prediction can be made. The risk is that markets do not always follow patterns and relying solely on this method may not work long term.

Cyclical analysis assumes that the markets react in cyclical patterns which, once identified, can be leveraged to provide performance. The risks with this strategy are two-fold: 1) the markets do not always repeat cyclical patterns and 2) if too many investors begin to implement this strategy, it changes the very cycles these investors are trying to exploit.

Quantitative Model Risk. Investment strategies using quantitative models may perform differently than expected as a result of, among other things, the factors used in the models, the weight placed on each factor, changes from the factors' historical trends, and technical issues in the construction and implementation of the models.

Modern Portfolio Theory assumes that investors are risk adverse, meaning that given two portfolios that offer the same expected return, investors will prefer the less risky one. Thus, an investor will take on increased risk only if compensated by higher expected returns. Conversely, an investor who wants higher expected returns must accept more risk. The exact trade-off will be the same for all investors, but different investors will evaluate the trade-off differently based on individual risk aversion characteristics. The implication is that a rational investor will not invest in a portfolio if a second portfolio exists with a more favorable risk-expected return profile – i.e., if for that level of risk an alternative portfolio exists which has better expected returns.

Risk of Loss There are risks inherent in all financial decisions and transactions. WAI and WAI's IARs cannot guarantee the current or future performance of client accounts, or the success of any investment decision or strategy that WAI may use with client accounts.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

WAI and WAI's IARs have no disciplinary information history to disclose.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Broker-Dealer and other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

WAI is not registered as a broker-dealer, futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator or commodity trading advisor and will not become registered in any of these capacities. WAI's IARs are not an associate of a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator or commodity trading advisor. WAI and WAI's IARs will not become registered or associated in any of these capacities.

No WAI IAR is licensed as a registered representative of a Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) or Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) registered broker-dealer.

Insurance Activities and Affiliations - WAI IARs may also be licensed as insurance agents and can provide insurance products and services to clients. As an insurance agent they will earn insurance commissions and fees while selling and servicing insurance products and services. They will only offer insurance products and services in states where they are properly licensed. These IARs spend less than 5% of their time on these insurance activities and receive less than 5% of their income from these activities.

CPA Accounting - A number of WAI IARs may also provide accounting, business consulting, and tax preparation services through MHCS, a Certified Public Accounting firm. Clients of WAI may also be clients of MHCS. Clients are not obligated in any manner to use the services of MHCS. These IARs spend a majority of their time on these CPA accounting activities and receive a majority of their income from these activities.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics - WAI has established a Code of Ethics to comply with the requirements of Section 204A-1 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and state rules that reflects WAI's fiduciary obligations and those of its supervised persons and requires compliance with federal and state securities laws. WAI's Code of Ethics covers all individuals that are classified as "supervised persons." All WAI owners and IARs are classified as supervised persons. WAI requires its supervised persons to consistently act in the WAI clients' best interest in all advisory activities. WAI imposes certain requirements on supervised persons to ensure that they meet WAI's fiduciary responsibilities to WAI clients. This standard of conduct requirement is higher than what is ordinarily required and encountered in business.

- WAI and WAI's supervised persons may buy, sell and hold securities for their personal accounts, which WAI may also recommend to clients, or buy and sell on a discretionary basis for clients. As these situations may present a conflict of interest, it is the policy of WAI that no supervised person shall prefer their own interest over the interest of WAI clients.
- No supervised person employed by WAI may buy or sell securities for their personal accounts where their decision is derived from information obtained through their employment with WAI unless the information is also available to the investing public upon reasonable inquiry.
- WAI does not recommend that clients buy or sell any security in which a related person to WAI or WAI has a material financial interest.
- WAI maintains a list of all securities holdings for all supervised persons, which is reviewed on a regular basis by a principal of WAI.

Conflicts of Interest – WAI must disclose any potential or actual conflicts of interest when dealing with clients.

WAI Obligations – WAI is subject to the following specific obligations when dealing with clients:

- The duty to have a reasonable, independent basis for its investment advice;

- The duty to ensure that investment advice is suitable to meeting the client's individual objectives, needs and circumstances; and
- A duty to be loyal to clients.

This Code of Ethics response is only intended to provide clients and potential clients with a summary description of WAI's Code of Ethics. If current clients or potential clients want to review WAI's entire Code of Ethics they may obtain a copy of it by calling Kellie Masters at 515-219-4835 or e-mailing her at: kmasters@waiowa.com.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

WAI Brokerage and Custodian Relationships - WAI considers a number of factors including, without limitation, best execution, the overall direct net economic impact on account assets (including commissions which may not be the lowest available, but which will not be higher than the generally prevailing competitive range) the financial stability of the Broker-Dealer and Custodian, the efficiency with which the transaction is effected, the ability to effect the transaction where complicating factors are involved, the availability of the Broker-Dealer and Custodian to stand ready to execute possible difficult transactions in the future, and other matters involved in the receipt of brokerage and research services.

WAI has Broker-Dealer/Custodian arrangements with LPL Financial, a SEC registered broker/dealer, member FINRA and SIPC and Charles Schwab & Co. (Schwab) a SEC registered broker/dealer, member FINRA, SIPC. All variable annuities managed within Portfolio Management Program accounts are held at the corresponding insurance company's custodian of record.

WAI will generally recommend LPL or Schwab to clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between WAI, LPL, Schwab, and the investment advice WAI gives to clients, although WAI receives economic benefits through its participation in the LPL and Schwab advisory accounts custody and brokerage services that are typically not available to retail investors. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount):

- Duplicate client statements and confirmations;
- Research related products and tools;
- Access to consulting services;
- Access to a trading desk serving advisor participants;
- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- Capability to execute, clear, and settle trades (buy and sell securities for your account)
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- Competitiveness of the price of those services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate the prices
- Access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts);
- The ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts;
- Access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information;
- Breadth of available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), etc.); and
- Access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers.

Schwab has eliminated commissions for online trades of equities, ETFs and options (subject to $0.65 per contract fee). This means that, in most cases, when WAI does buy and sell these types of securities, WAI will not have to pay any commissions to Schwab. WAI encourages clients to review Schwab's pricing to compare the total costs of entering into a wrap fee arrangement versus a non-wrap fee arrangement. If a client chooses to enter into a wrap fee arrangement, the client's total cost to invest could exceed the cost of paying for brokerage and advisory services separately. To see what you would pay for transactions in a non-wrap account please refer to Schwab's most recent pricing schedules available at schwab.com/aspricingguide.

In addition, a Schwab affiliate, Charles Schwab Bank, provides uncommitted revolving non-purpose securities-based lines of credit to Schwab clients, which are secured by assets held in separate pledged accounts maintained by Schwab.

Some of the products and services made available by LPL and Schwab may benefit WAI but may not directly benefit client accounts. These products or services may assist WAI in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at LPL and Schwab and include the following services:

- Access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements);
- Facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts;
- Pricing and other market data;
- Facilitate payment of our fees from our clients' accounts; and
- Assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting.

Other services made available by LPL and Schwab are intended to help WAI manage and further develop our business enterprise. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by WAI creates a conflict of interest and may influence WAI's choice or recommendation of LPL and Schwab for custody and brokerage services. These services may include the following:

- Educational conferences and events;
- Consulting on technology and business needs;
- Consulting on legal and compliance related needs;
- Publications and conferences on practice management and business succession;
- Access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, and insurance providers;
- Marketing consulting and support; and
- Access to discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products, services or conferences provided to WAI by LPL, Schwab, or third party vendors.

WAI, its IARs and associates from time to time may accept invitations to financial events and conferences from LPL and Schwab, which may include flights, lodging and meals, in addition to other expenses. LPL and Schwab may also host appreciation events for WAI, its IARs, affiliates, allied professionals and clients. LPL and Schwab may also reimburse WAI for WAI appreciation events.

Additional Service Provider for Held Away Accounts - WAI has established a relationship with Pontera, a technology firm that provides service platform solutions to investment advisers, such as WAI, that advise and/or manage held away client accounts, such as qualified plan participant accounts. The Pontera platform allows WAI to receive feeds from held away accounts, analyze accounts, plan fees, and execute trades.
