Clear Harbor Asset Management's CEO Aaron Kennon Named to Forbes Magazine's List of Top Advisors

Stamford, Connecticut—Clear Harbor Asset Management LLC today announced that Aaron Kennon, the CEO and Co-Founder of the firm, has been named to Forbes Magazine's 2021 list of Best-In-State Wealth Advisors.

"This award belongs to the entire Clear Harbor family—my colleagues and the firm's trusted clients. The Clear Harbor team is passionate about the work that we do on behalf of our clients—particularly during this moment of great economic and geopolitical uncertainty. This award reflects the personalized approach that we embrace and the commitment that we make to deliver what we consider to be best-in-class advice and service to each of our client relationships," commented Mr. Kennon.

The ranking, developed by Forbes' partner SHOOK Research, is based on both quantitative and qualitative data and insights, rating thousands of wealth advisors and weighing factors such as in-person interviews, industry experience, community involvement, client retention data, and revenue trends. 32,810 nominations were received of which 13,235 telephone interviews, 2,595 in-person interviews, and 692 web-based interviews were conducted to create the Forbes lists. Advisors must have at least seven years' experience to be considered. To learn more about their process visit here.
