

Notice of Glen Eagle Wealth, LLC Regarding Disclosure of Order Routing Information

Pursuant to SEC Rule 606 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Glen Eagle Wealth, LLC (here on known as Glen Eagle), makes available to its customers, on a quarterly basis, certain information regarding the identity of the venues to which its non-directed customers' orders are routed. This rule pertains to equities on the NYSE, those approved for inclusion in NASDAQ or any other national securities exchange, and certain options.

Rule 606 reports for Glen Eagle and information on the Glen Eagle routing policy for Held Orders may be found by contacting Glen Eagle.

In addition, upon request, Glen Eagle will furnish you with (i) a written copy of a Rule 606 report and/or (ii) the identity of the venue to which your orders were routed for execution in the six months prior to the request, whether the orders were directed orders or non-directed orders and the time of the transactions, if any, that resulted from such orders. For addition information about Rule 606 please refer to the following SEC.gov link, <https://www.sec.gov/tm/faq-rule-606-regulation-nms>

Statement of Order Routing Practices

Glen Eagle, in an effort to seek best execution, may route non-directed customer orders to national securities exchanges, electronic communication networks ("ECN"), and other market centers. In turn, and in conjunction with best execution practices, Glen Eagle may receive a monetary payment or other benefit in consideration for Glen Eagle directing orders to a specific venue for execution. This may include, and is not limited to, a rebate or reduced processing charges.

For NASDAQ eligible orders, Glen Eagle does not make a market in the trading of any eligible securities. All orders are transmitted directly to an individual market maker or ECN for execution on a fully-disclosed agency basis.
