130 | 30 Tax Aware Long Short Strategy

Portfolio allocation may change based on the discretion of the manager. Additional 30 | 30 Long Short Funded By Selling Box Spreads Which Have a Financing Cost Leverage is Utilized in the Portfolio

ZEGA Tax Aware 130 | 30 Long Short Strategy

- ❑ Start by purchasing 85%-100% of hedged equity with exposure to the S&P 500 Index
- ❑ Sell short ETFs on an additional 30% of the value of the account
- ❑ Buy an additional 30% long exposure
- ❑ Result is 130% Long Exposure & 30% Short Exposure
- ❑ Look to harvest losses where available while letting winners run
- ❑ Fund the additional Long/Short exposure by synthetically borrowing money via a short box spread on the S&P 500 Index
- ❑ Box spreads typically have lower borrowing costs while creating losses (the interest) that may be utilized against gains

ZEGA Tax Aware 130 30 Long Short Strategy	% Allocation
Long Hedged Equity	97%
Additional Long Market Exposure	30%
Additional Short Market Exposure	-30%
Cash	3.00%
Net Long Exposure	100.00%

Portfolio allocation may change based on the discretion of the manager.

Tax Aware 130 | 30 Long Short Strategy Benefits & Risks

Benefits

- ❑ Aim to create 'unrealized' long term gains while creating 'realized' losses in short positions
- ❑ Strategy looks to harvest losses while maintaining the goal to aim to generate net gains across the aggregate portfolio
- ❑ While not designed as a hedge, short positions may provide a positive offset during market downturns
- ❑ Utilize liquid exchange traded ETFs and options to design portfolios with no lock up period & can be exited

Risks

- ❑ There is no guarantee that the extra long 30% and the short -30% portions will create a net gain and may produce additional losses
- ❑ Portfolio returns may not exceed the borrow cost of the short box spread
- ❑ Strategy utilizes leverage in the portfolio and costs associated with borrowing
- ❑ Short positions may create short term gains during market downturns contrary to the aim of the strategy
- ❑ Manager does not consider an individual's tax status and should consult with a tax professional

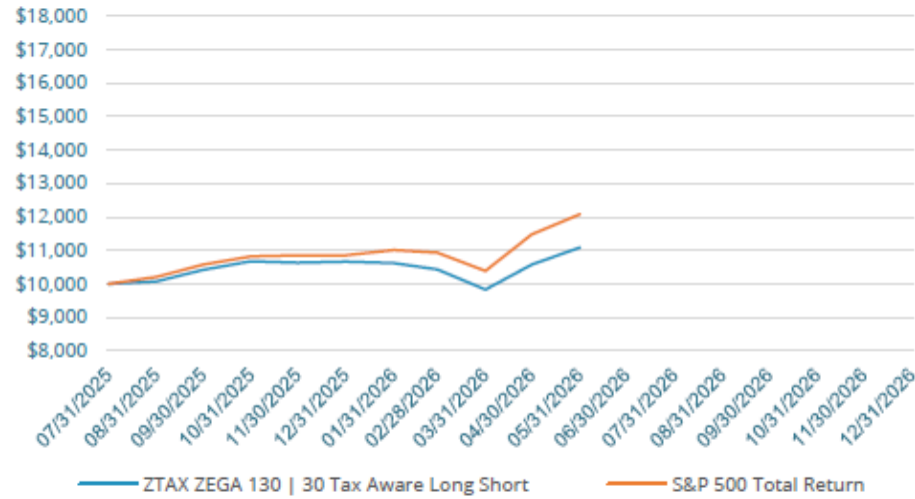

Portfolio allocation may change based on the discretion of the manager. Manager does not make a determination of an individual's tax status and should consult their own tax professional to determine tax treatment of securities purchased, sold, or held. ZEGA Investments does not render tax advice
