

West Bend Children's Theater- Spring 2014

It seems like spring 2014 took a while to get here. But when I looked out the window at home a few days ago and simultaneously saw a yellow finch, a robin, an indigo bunting, an oriole, a hummingbird, a rose breasted grosbeak and a cardinal all at the same time, I knew spring was here to stay! Alas, along with that comes the time to continue the war on the garlic mustard that attempts to take over our woods each year.

I open this blast with the mention of birds, because not only do I love them but this year I was one! I was the green bird in the 2014 West Bend Children's Theater production of The Snow Queen. Once again the LFG staff took time from the office to see the play. Here is a picture of us following that performance.

This year WBCT was pleased to continue the tradition of 9 performances and welcomed schools from Washington county and also Milwaukee. We raised sufficient funds to sponsor 500 Head Start students since the Federal funding was cut. LFG is proud to have been the sponsor for 250 of those students.
